POLICE HALT RUSH TO NEW OIL FIELD

Prospectors Warned Against Dangers in Far North Oil Lands.

By Lee J. Smith
(Special to Post-Crescent)
Vancouver, B. C. — A squadron of Northwest Mounted Police, furnished with snow shoes, is holding back frenzied oil prospectors at Fort McMurray, to prevent them from risking their lives on the 1000-mile rail to the fabulous fields opened up at Fort Norman by the Imperial Oil Co.

A repetition of the Yukon gold rush, in which many lives were sacrificed, is feared by the mounted police and by officials of the Hudson Bay Co. and Northern Trading Co., Ltd., whose trading posts are the only white settlements along the Peace and Mackenzie rivers leading to the rich oil strike.

Food is Short
Last winter concluded a period of such prosperity for the Indian trappers that they have neglected to accumulate the usual store of winter food and famine certainly would attend any influx of fortune-hunters.

The Fort Norman gusher not only has what is believed to be vast reservoirs of oil, but the product is of higher grade than any hitherto discovered in Canada. There are about 20 white men at the scene of the strike, and claims have been staked for 15 miles up and down stream from the big find.

Prepare for Rush
The break up of ice, late in the spring, will leave a waterway between the rail terminus and the oil field, which is less than 100 miles south of the arctic circle. Boat building is being rushed, despite deep snow and bitter cold.

Captain C. Smith of the Lamson-Whitard steamer, Lady Mackworth, passed through here on his way south with the latest report on the sensa-

EDUCATION HELPS DISABLED VETS

University of Wisconsin Has 234 Enrolled for Various Courses.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison—The high grade of college work done by the 234 disabled soldiers who are now enrolled in the University of Wisconsin, under the auspices of the federal board for vocational education, is praised by Dean J. D. Phillips, assistant dean of the college of engineering who acts as their counselor, in a report just prepared upon the university's work of training wounded men.

Of the 234 disabled soldiers known as "federal board students," who are now in the university, 130 are enrolled for regular courses and 104 are registered as special students. They are distributed among the various colleges as follows: 92 in agriculture; 42 in engineering; 12 in law, all regular students; 73 in the various courses of letters and science; six in medicine, all regular students; seven graduate students in agriculture; and two graduate letter and science students.

"If the physical condition of the federal board students is taken into consideration, it may be said that the results secured by these students have been very satisfactory," Dean Phillips reported. "As a rule poor results have been accounted for by poor health. The results secured by federal board students in attendance at the university during the same period compared very favorably with the results secured by the regular students. These results are rather surprising in view of the fact that such a large percentage of these students entered the university with less than the usual preparation."

NAVY MAKES PLANS FOR LONG CRUISE

Little Probability That Harding Administration Will Call It Off.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Washington—Starting about June 15, the American navy will take the second longest trip in its history. The longest cruise was when ex-President Roosevelt ordered the sea fighters around the world in 1903.

There has been some talk that the next administration might cancel Secretary Daniels' order for the long cruise. This report is exploded. The voyage was recommended by the General Board of Admirals, the Bureau of Navigation and the Bureau of Operation, and assurances are said to have been received that the trip will not be called off.

Long Journeys
The Atlantic fleet will visit the ports of the east coast of South America, then go to Capetown, the capital of Cape Colony, Africa, the round trip being 16,400 miles. The Pacific fleet will visit the South Sea Islands and the ports of Australia and New Zealand, a distance of 18,000 miles. The commanders in chief haven't sent their exact itineraries to Secretary Daniels yet.

Following are the first time ships of the navy that will make the long voyage:

ATLANTIC FLEET—Utah, Florida, Delaware, North Dakota, Arizona, Oklahoma, Nevada.

PACIFIC FLEET—Wyoming, Arkansas, Texas, New Mexico, New York, Mississippi, Idaho, Tennessee.

The purpose of this long cruise is to test out things learned in naval warfare during the World War, such as screening, communication, signaling, radio control, airplane attacks and defense, smoke bombs, and to put into practice reciprocating, turbine, turbine combustible and direct-connected-electric power and other engines.

Officers say the admirals will learn how to handle a great fleet as a unit, captains will learn how to handle their ships in the presence of other craft, sailors will get actual practice in rapid maneuvering of machinery and gunnery.

The general board, made up of high ranking admirals, will learn much about the efficiency of the navy when it reviews the reports.

Before the fleets take the long journey, they will visit the Canal Zone and South American ports, starting about Jan. 5 and returning to their home yards about May 1. The Atlantic fleet goes to Cuba, Canal Zone and Peru. The Pacific to Canal Zone and Valparaiso, Chile. They will engage in joint maneuvers Jan. 24.

WILL HARDING SWEAR OFF

This is Miss Lucy Page Gaston of Chicago, who has written to President elect Harding asking him to quit smoking cigarettes so as to be a better example to the youth of the nation. She mentioned President Wilson and ex-President Roosevelt as non-users of the evil "pill." No comment was made at Marion as to whether Harding will swear off as urged. For 20 years Miss Gaston has been the bitterest foe of the cigaret in America. She announced her candidacy for president in January, 1920, but no boom developed.

America Will Soon Be World's Marriage Center

Thousands of European Women Coming to U. S. in Search of Husbands.

By Ralph F. Couch
By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—The United States of America is now rapidly becoming the world's matrimonial center.

Blessed with an oversupply of males in proportion to females, this country now is attracting women of all nations at the rate of nearly 350,000 a year, government records show. Thousands of these women hope to obtain husbands and homes in this country while thousands more are coming to join husbands and other male relatives from whom they have been separated for years.

Every ship from Europe and the British Isles is bringing women here. They constituted 42.2 per cent of the total of all immigration in the fiscal year ended June 30 and the proportion now is probably greater. Before the war women constituted 33 per cent of the immigrants. British, Irish, Italian and French women form nearly fifty per cent of the total immigration from those countries.

Only the dark eyed beauties of Spain seem content to remain at home, their emigration record being only 13 per cent of the total departures from that country.

France and other European countries now are beginning to be anxious over this exodus of their women. One French scientist recently advanced the proposal that the government should set up a matrimonial bureau to attract marriageable men to that country. He estimated that nearly one million French women of this generation will be husbandless. In England and Italy the same problem is being considered by officials.

In practically all schemes proposed to gain husbands for the European women, the United States is regarded as the most logical country to furnish the needed males.

The French proposal as originally framed stipulated that the government confer a bonus and land upon the American male willing to emigrate to that country and become a householder.

Another reason for the excess female population of Europe is seen, according to other sociologists, in present day fashions most of women originate abroad. The excess of females in Europe makes the rivalry for husbands among women unusually acute. The women therefore desire costumes which will make their charms most attractive.

ELKHART, IND., IS CITY OF TRANSIENTS, FISH SAYS

William C. Fish has returned from Elkhart, Ind., where he attended the funeral of Mrs. S. N. Fish, his sister-in-law. He says Elkhart is a city of transients and has a large number of restaurants. No meals are served at hotels, which provide their guests with rooms only. The city is full of rooming houses and flat buildings and nearly all of them are equipped for light housekeeping. The paper mill in which S. N. Fish has been employed for several years, started up Monday, after being shut down for nearly a month.

Annual Meeting
The annual meeting of the Congregational church will be held Thursday evening supper will be served to all members of the parish the church turning out hot coffee and one hot dish. Each family will take sandwiches and other food that may be desired. Two tables will be served, one at six o'clock and one at 6.45.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our many friends, relatives and Rev. Peabody for the sympathy shown us and the many beautiful floral offerings during our bereavement the death of our Mother, Grand mother and Great Grandmother. (Signed) The Family. adv

COLLEGE MEN PUT UP DORMITORIES

Prague College Boys Forced to Build Own Homes When They Attend School.

By J. H. Duckworth
Prague, Czechoslovakia—The college boys of Prague, unable to find lodgings or putting up their own quarters with their own hands. They expect to make a world's record in doing so. By Christmas they will have quarters for 700, work was only started the middle of October.

Use New Method
This building speed in house building is made possible by the genius of Prof. Zborovsky, teacher of constructional engineer at the Technical High School, who has invented an entirely new method of putting up buildings. Briefly it is this:

On a foundation of brick are erected double walls of planks. The roof is also of wood and double, the top surface resting on the lower by a simple and light system of bracing some thing like that used in the building of airplane wings. The walls are filled with ashes, making them absolutely cold proof. The outside is stuccoed. These may seem temporary makeshifts but they will last at least 100 years.

Immediately after the crash of Austria Hungary and the rebirth of the Czechoslovak nation there was a tremendous rush of the youth of the new republic to the seats of learning. For centuries the Austrians had attempted to crush Czech culture.

9000 Students Enter
This year 9000 students, from all over the republic, swamped the ancient Czech University of Prague, the fees of which had been put within the reach of the poorest. It was impossible to find housing accommodation for them all.

Students formed an organization for the purpose of making their own homes. Plans were drawn up for a group of buildings of considerable artistic beauty. The buildings will be centrally heated, and have telephones and electric lights. There will be a big kitchen and a central dining hall.

"Work for Solidarity"
Fourteen hundred undergraduates pledged themselves to work at least 72 hours on the job as carpenters, bricklayers, plumbers, roofers, etc. Their slogan was "Work for Solidarity."

The trade unions put no difficulties in their way. The municipality gave 8 acres of land. Gangs of students hiked into the forests for lumber; others went to the quarries for stone. The ministry of national defense lent motor lorries. Patriotic contractors contributed bricks and other material, and tools. There is no building trust there.

You can't down a spirit like this. It's the stuff that makes a great and progressive nation.

80,000 CLAIMS OF YANKS ARE HELD UP

American Legion Demands Speedier Action on Claims for Compensation.

By E. M. Thierry
(Special to Post-Crescent)
New York—Compensation claims of 80,000 sick and disabled World War veterans are awaiting action in the War Risk Insurance Bureau at Washington.

Action on many of these claims have been delayed for months. Meanwhile thousands of these veterans, helpless and penniless, are dependent on relatives or friends, even on strangers, for food and shelter. Some are suffering sorely from neglect, hardly knowing where their next meal is coming from.

The bureau takes two months to put through an ordinary claim. It admits unusual cases often drag from three to twelve months.

Typical Case
Consider the case of Sergeant Frank H. Smith of the 11th Field Signal Battalion. Smith was discharged from the army May 22, 1919, but because of disability was unable to work until September. After working for seven weeks, his health broke down completely, so that for three months he was bedridden in his home.

On Feb. 13, 1920, Smith was removed to a hospital, where he remained six months.

Meanwhile Smith submitted a claim for compensation. He heard nothing about it for seven months.

Finally, though, he got his award. It was $5 a month.

The Beavers National Mutual Benefit, the branch into which members now solicited go, had on December 31st, last year, $106 on hand for every $400 required by law.

Valuation for this year has not been made but the Society will make even a better showing.

ROAD BUILDING IN 1921

One billion dollars has been made available for road work in 1921 according to the American Road Builders' Association, which has called a national gathering of good roads advocates to be held in Chicago early in February. The association is composed of government, state, county and city highway officials, as well as engineers, contractors, road users and manufacturers of road-building machinery and materials.

The Chicago meeting is to consider: improved methods in road building and maintenance, the need for better highways as railroad feeders, road bonds, powers and duties of highway officials and the use of convict labor on the roads. Types and foundations of roads, materials, machinery, limitation and regulation of traffic, financing local contractors, the use of trucks, tractors and trailers, all these matters will come up for discussion.

According to officers of the association $540,800,000 has been appropriated for road work in 16 states alone. There is available $160,000,000 through federal aid, and $276,200,000 has been provided through direct levies by states and counties. During the year it is probable that more money will be available for road work. The total will be well over a billion dollars.

It is a good time to go ahead with more road building. Materials are lower. Not since before the war has there been a time when as many thousands of workers were available for road work. A billion dollars will end many miles of bad roads, and many unemployment cases. It does both at the same time.

But the underlying thought, and the highest goal, at that congress should not be to provide employment for workers, nor a market for materials, it should be good roads where they are needed most. Good roads are only good roads if they are built to bear a traffic of many years. Also, they must be built efficiently.

AS A TEXT FOR MR. HARDING

The national circumstances under which Warren G. Harding shortly will assume the presidency are not unlike those in which Washington delivered his first inaugural address and Abraham Lincoln his second. Washington's task was the construction of a government for which the foundation had been laid. He was without the counsel of experience and the young genius of democracy was his only guide. His brief inaugural address was a prayer "to the benign parent of the human race."

The Civil war was coming to a conclusion in the hour of Lincoln's second inauguration, and the Union Victory was but a few days off. Before him was the task of rebuilding a nation rent in twain. He was not permitted to live for this work.

Harding's problem combines elements of the great tasks of Washington and Lincoln. There is new construction as well as reconstruction to be done. The nation is on the threshold of a fresh start. The problems of Washington and Lincoln were political and domestic; Harding's are economic and international. The first concern of the new administration is domestic tranquility and prosperity. But, in view of our new relations, neither is permanently certain unless the new administration discovers a basis for world peace that shall serve as a foundation comprehensive enough and strong enough for the whole new economic structure that must be erected.

As the text for his inaugural address and as inspiration for the work of his administration, Harding, confronted by discouraging difficulties, might well take the peroration of Lincoln's second inaugural: "With malice toward none; with charity for all, with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind the nation's wounds; to care for him who shall have borne the battle; and for his widow, and his orphan—to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves, and with all nations."

ANOTHER PHASE OF THE SCHOOL PROBLEM

Too many children quit school too early. This results in loss to them, and to the country. The thing to do, knowing that something must be done about it, is to find what is wrong, and eliminate that. The problem is one for parents and teachers. These are the facts: Of every thousand children who enter school only 139 get through high school. Only 23 of that thousand finish college. But 83 per cent of school children reach the sixth grade. Less than 35 per cent of the original thousand enter high school. These drop out so rapidly that but 150 of them attain the fourth grade, and but 139 are graduated.

These are figures of a specialist in educational statistics of the United States Bureau of Education. They are not pleasing to Americans who point with so much pride to the high educational plane this country has set for its goal. They are not encouraging to those who hope for a better, more intelligent, more progressive citizenry tomorrow. They are not flattering. This nation has no ambition to become a nation of sixth-graders. It has no desire to have a population of which less than 14 per cent have finished high school. When our forefathers made an educational system a part of the government they hoped for a high school education for every child—and far larger percentage than 2.3 of college graduates. It has been argued that poverty has something to do with the dwindling of the original thousand first-grade pupils. That this does not play so prominent a part is proven by the records in so-called prosperous and hardtime years, when schools lose about the same number of pupils. Poverty is no real bar to education where there is grit and determination.

The Bureau of Education has the idea that what is wrong is the clogging of early grades by "repeaters." There are of course other causes but it emphasizes this phase of the school problem. A "repeater" is a school laggard, one who fails of promotion and must do over the work of the last term. The number of repeaters in the first grade is said to represent about one-fourth of the total public school enrollment. There are more repeaters in the first grade than are pupils enrolled in all the high schools. First-grade repeaters alone cost the public a tenth of the sum spent upon public schools. Then there are repeaters in the second grade, and in all the grades higher. The percentage is greatest in the first grade, and grows smaller for each succeeding grade.

Repeating is costly. It is largely responsible for overcrowding of schools. That, however, is not where it is most costly. Repeating holds a child back. The child develops a dislike for school. His classmates are younger than he. He seizes (or creates) an opportunity to leave school as soon as the compulsory attendance law releases him. Repeating can be cut down, teachers say, if parents will cooperate with them. Parents may aid children in many ways, and not the least of these is by encouragement. The child that wins a promotion is anxious to face the next term; the child who fails to "pass" is the one who wants to quit school.

ON BEING CONTENTED

Jack Walton tells of a man who had several beautiful mansions and often moved from one to the other.

A friend asked him why he moved so frequently from one house to the other, to which the restless man replied: "It is to find content in some one of them."

But his friend told him: "If you would find content in any of your houses, you must leave yourself behind you; for content will never dwell but in the meek and quiet soul."

Yet, though contentment has been defined and honored thus in prose and poetry, how many men know it when they meet it? We think we know what contentment is, but when we attain the things that we were sure would make us contented, we find no contentment in them.

Paradoxically, we strive to attain contentment by being as discontented as possible with what fortune has given us, like the man who moved from house to house.

And most men, dreaming for contentment all their lives, never learn that contentment is neither a place nor a physical condition, but a spiritual gift that in every man awaits cultivation.

Contentment is inside, not outside.

The Imperial War Museum opened at the Crystal Palace in London, contains more than 100,000 exhibits.

The boots worn by the life guards of the British army cost $60 a pair.

Exports of feathers from Africa bring about $25,000,000 each year.

The Asiatic town of Malawatch, on the borders of Russia, is populated by men only.

Belgium is planning to destroy all its islands.

THE PEPTIC ULCER

In a study of 500 cases of peptic (stomach, gastric or duodenal) ulcer treated at the Battle Creek Sanitarium, Dr. L. L. Eggleston reports in the Journal of the American Medical Association that complete relief and apparent cure (at least no relapse within three years) may be reasonably expected in 70 per cent of the cases, provided—

And this is the secret of success in the treatment of stomach or duodenal ulcer—

Provided the patient remains under treatment for an average period of five weeks.

Nearly thirty per cent of all the cases treated remained under treatment an average period of only three weeks and suffered recurrence. There's a lesson in these striking figures for anyone afflicted with this particular variety of so-called "acid dyspepsia" or indigestion.

It seems to be characteristic of the peptic ulcer patient to rebel against the necessary dietetic and other wise restrictions as soon as he or she is free of the immediate and more troublesome symptoms. Thus wilful conduct explains why so many victims of ulcer fail to continue long enough with treatment—and suffer recurrence.

The symptoms, of course, do not concern us. We need not suggest symptoms here, goodness knows. Symptoms are something for the patient to tell his doctor. But no harm will be done by explaining that hyperacidity or excessive acidity, with burning or boring pain a few hours after eating, especially hunger pain (relieved on taking some food), is never just dyspepsia or indigestion; it may be ulcer, gallstones, or some other serious disease, but never just dyspepsia or indigestion, no matter what all the nostrum vendors, quack doctors and mossback practitioners may tell you.

The important features of the most successful treatment of ulcer of stomach or duodenum are: (1) rest in bed for one to three weeks, a difficult thing for the habitual gambler to submit to—he is so accustomed to gambling his health (and money) against the nostrum vendor's promise of cure without such inconvenience; (2) more or less frequently repeated lavage (stomach washing) as in the method of treatment so successfully employed by Dr. B. W. Sippy of Chicago, and known to physicians as the Sippy method; (3) very large and very frequent feedings with suitable alkalis; (4) the moist abdominal bandage worn constantly during the early days of the treatment (when the patient is in bed). A method of treatment which obviously cannot very well be carried on at home unless the patient can afford heavy expense, but readily carried out in any hospital without extraordinary expense.

HOW'S YOUR VOCABULARY?

There have been different estimates placed on the number of words in the English language. But 300,000 is generally accepted as a fair estimate.

Of these 300,000 not more than 10 per cent are in everyday practical use. Milton, who wrote "Paradise Lost" had a vocabulary of not more than 1500 words. Shakespeare, who wrote and wrote, had command of 15,000 words.

But they were exceptional men. The highly cultured man or woman of this day rarely uses a vocabulary exceeding 5000 words. And very seldom, it is said, will be found a person in the ordinary walks of life who is able to use more than two or three thousands of the 300,000 words in the language. On the other hand there are people who are of such a type that they are limited conventionally to the use of no more than 300 words.

Where do you rank? Are you up there with Shakespeare? Do you fall in the 5000 class? Or are you just one of the "ordinary folks" with a talking asset of between 2000 and 3000 words?

RENEWING GOLD AND SILVER LACE

Now that most things that are fashionable glitter, don't throw away expensive gold and silver lace just because they have become tarnished.

Put the lace on a piece of wooden cloth, stretch by tacking to the kitchen table or ironing board, and remove all dust by giving it a thorough brushing.

Next apply powdered burnt alum with a soft brush. Allow to stand for a few minutes before removing the lace from the wooden and dusting free of powder. The burnt alum restores the bright finish to the lace.

Gold and silver lace can be renewed in the same way.

Improving Dispensaries.

By Frederic J. Haskin

New York City—What does the dispensary do for the health of the city, and what more could it do?

These are the questions which the Public Health Committee of the New York Academy of Medicine has recently sought to answer by an extensive investigation of New York dispensaries and the people who patronize them.

The growth of the dispensary during the past 20 years has been phenomenal. In 1904, there were only 150 dispensaries in the entire United States, whereas today there are at least 3,000. From a few dingy rooms, presided over by a couple of doctors whose chief duty was the vaccination of people against smallpox, the dispensary has developed into a modern, well-equipped, small hospital, where the poor receive almost free of charge the same treatment for which the rich pay large sums.

In New York there are now 153 dispensaries. In this number are included 21 tuberculosis, eight dental, 10 eye and three rabies clinics of the department of health, and six school clinics maintained by the Children's Aid Society. Of the 103 remaining, 65 are out-patient departments of hospitals, 34 are detached dispensaries, and six are connected with colleges. In addition, the health department maintains 12 venereal disease clinics (all but two advisory only), three occupational clinics and 60 baby health stations. Several private agencies also maintain an additional number of milk stations.

The average number of persons treated annually in New York dispensaries has been one and a quarter million for the last five years. Over 2,000 New York physicians are giving their services to this cause, in the majority of cases absolutely without compensation.

Thus, New York is plentifully supplied with dispensaries, but the Public Health Committee believes that their quality could be improved upon.

Faults of Dispensaries

"Of late the dispensaries have taken on functions along the lines of preventive medicine and public health, but this development is still in its infancy." Is the committee's first criticism. "The great opportunities of the dispensaries in the fields of both curative and preventive medicine have not as yet been fully grasped by the institutions, nor have their social responsibilities been clearly realized."

In other words, the committee finds the dispensaries quite efficient in the treatment of specific ills, such as abscessed ear or a broken leg, but they do not give complete physical examinations to determine the general health of the patient; they do not go in for educational work such as the teaching of good health habits, and they do not have the time for the sort of follow-up work that would make them one of the greatest social influences in the community. Only a few of the dispensaries, as yet, have well-organized social service departments.

Two things that also need immediate amelioration in clinic procedure, it says, are the reduction of waiting time before admission and the method of assignment of patients to clinics. Patients are made to wait unduly long periods of time, which is a hardship for most of them if they are employed, or as in the case of mothers, if they have domestic duties. The committee believes that this could be obviated to a large extent by a system of appointments, as is customary in private practice.

Such a system is now proving very successful at the Mayo Clinic at Rochester.

Then, in most dispensaries, the symptoms of the patients are recorded by a lay registrar—usually, the clinic secretary—who makes a rough diagnosis and assigns the patient to the particular department of the clinic which will take care of him. But often, after hours of waiting, when he arrives at this department, the diagnosis turns out to be incorrect, and he has to be transferred to an entirely different department—sometimes to an entirely different clinic.

The committee believes that this evil could easily be corrected if each clinic had a diagnostic division, where patients with chronic diseases or with not easily recognizable maladies.

For with all their faults, as the Public Health Committee sees them, the dispensaries of the better type provide the poor of our big cities with practically the same medical aid that the rich receive from prominent specialists. If they can do so much for the poor, their present physical and financial restrictions, how much more could they not do with more money and equipment? And should they not be open to all who cannot afford the services of specialists?

The Days of Reckless Extravagance are Withered and Gone

The 110,000 million people in this land are no longer going to pay without question prices that are without reason.

From now on we are all going to demand values—refusing to unwrap our purse strings to a price that has a string to it.

In a word; This country is coming back to where business is business and not a speculation.

And this store is as glad it is as you are for it gives us the chance to exercise our muscle and get in those heavy value punches that we have always been so famous for.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

A delicious tomato soup can be made without stock. The soup may be thin or a puree. While a thick cream soup is seldom served at dinner it is nourishing and quite "filling" for luncheon. All vegetables make pleasing cream soups but tomatoes alone seem adapted for a thin soup without a stock foundation.

A tablespoonful of bacon fat and butter are used to give richness. The bacon fat also adds to the taste. An onion is minced and browned in the melted fat. A pint of tomatoes and the tops from a bunch of celery are added to the onion and the whole is stewed slowly for 30 minutes. This is then strained through a sieve and a small amount of soda is added. If the tomatoes are quite acid, as much as 1-4 teaspoonful of soda should be used. But if the tomatoes are fairly sweet less soda is used. The soda is necessary to neutralize the tomatoes so they will combine with the milk without curdling it. The strained tomato juice is added to one and one-half cups of hot milk. Season with salt and pepper and heat but do not boil. Serve immediately.

Menu for Tomorrow
DREAMFAST—Stewed dried apricots, scrambled eggs with bacon, whole wheat pop-overs, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Nut croquettes, oyster sauce, finger rolls, oatmeal cookies.

DINNER—New England boiled dinner, apple pie, coffee.

My Own Recipes

After the fasting everyone indulges in during the holidays, plain living is very welcome. A New England dinner offers wholesome plan food to counteract the effect of too much sweet and too rich food.

NUT CROQUETTES
1 cup walnut meats
1-4 cups bread crumbs (use part of loaf)
1 cup cold veal or chicken stock
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1-2 cup milk
1-2 teaspoon salt
pepper and celery salt
dried bread crumbs
1 egg

Melt butter, stir in flour, add lemon juice and add milk, stirring constantly. Add nuts, bread crumbs, salt and pepper and mix thoroughly. Pour on a platter to cool. Shape in balls, roll in crumbs, dip in egg slightly beaten with 1 tablespoonful of cold water, roll again in crumbs and fry in deep hot fat. Serve with oyster sauce made by adding chopped oysters to a rich white sauce.

Adventures of the Twins

"Nancy's Dream"

Ishtar took the twins to his hut and treated them kindly. He made a warm fire of moss, and when the children finally crept into the warm bed of skins that lay against the wall, they dropped off to sleep and slept until morning while Ishtar kept watch.

But Nancy had a dream. At least she thought it was a dream, but really it must have actually happened. How else could certain things have taken place as they did afterward?

A bright light appeared to the little girl and in the center of it Nancy saw the smiling features of a beautiful Fairy Queen.

"Don't worry," said the Queen with an encouraging nod of her head. "I know that you have lost all your charms in the carved box which the Bobadil Jinn stole from you, but if you do what I tell you, you may get them back. Then you and Nickie may continue your journey to the South Pole to get Santa's toys back from the bad Snitcher Snatch. The wicked Bobadil Jinn will return in the morning to see where you are and what you are doing. Be on the watch for him. You will know when he is near by the smell of hyacinth perfume. As soon as you smell this scent, wave your left arm three times from right to left and say these words:

"Oh, Bobadil Jinn, come hither, wherever you are, or wither. You're going from here to wither." Instantly he will become visible. The carved box is in his right pocket. Grab it, slip on the Magic Shoes quickly and wish yourselves away."

Then Nancy woke up.

THE BOOK OF DEBORAH

It was for Ann That Deb Had Made the Great Sacrifice

I was glad that Jim slept a long time for Ann was gone on her ride with Van much too long. She didn't return until the middle of the afternoon. She and Van had rested their horses at the Valley Inn, she said, and they had lunched there. Glorious weather! Glorious ride! She seemed to consider Van, the bachelor clubman, "glorious" that day. She hoped Jim had had a glorious sleep. He had, I assured her.

Ann had never irritated me more. Lately she had assumed that she was the perfect type of the new woman and it was her habit to take all the liberties belonging to that title, and to shut all the responsibilities. Consequently, she was becoming a little fresh, but fetching to men. I was especially irritated, I suppose, because it was for her that Deborah Burns had made the greatest sacrifice that falls to the lot of a woman.

Since the hour when she had told me that she had determined to think of Jim as one who had died, Deborah had never made an inquiry about the "hopeless" case. It occurred to me that Deb was strenuous, even in her self-denial, for we do not ignore the dead so completely. If we love them greatly, we talk of them constantly.

Since Deb wouldn't come to my house, because it was next to Jim's, I went frequently to hers. Deb and I continued to need each other. She was suffering—and so was I, more than I cared to acknowledge to any one.

On the whole I thought very well of her plan to eliminate Jim from her consciousness. I wanted a plan for myself, but I couldn't adopt hers. I couldn't very well treat my husband as if he were dead.

"I see," said Deb.

"So much so that Chrys found an excuse for going home early and taking Ann with her," I admitted. "Social affairs have rather confused little Ann." I hurried to explain. "It's her first chance, you know. And she's making up for the good times she missed before she was married."

"I wish we girls could think of a way to keep her from running around with Van. When Jim gets well, he's sure to hear the gossip."

EMERGENCY BOARD CALLED USELESS

Treasurer Johnson and Governor Blaine Refuse to Sign Treasury Orders.

Special to Post-Crescent.
Madison, Wis.—State Treasurer Henry Johnson has refused to sign any more orders as a member of the emergency board without a full hearing and is advising the public that both the emergency board and the state board of public affairs are useless. He declares that $3,000,000 has been granted by the emergency board, composed of the governor, secretary of state and state treasurer, in the last year of its existence. This means $1,000,000 for the various departments above the appropriations allowed by the legislature.

Mr. Johnson is refusing to sign a request for an emergency appropriation which had been recommended by the state board of public affairs. He says the public affairs board is a useless piece of state machinery which serves to pass the buck. The office of state treasurer cannot fill and that the emergency board empowered upon request made through the state board of public affairs to make grants from the general fund in excess of legislative appropriations has in no way assumed the legislative function of granting appropriations.

Governor Blaine is said to agree with the state treasurer to a very large extent and a hearing he may not be summoned to it. One of the points he has pointed out at the time he has given the heads of the various departments his commissions etc. is that the emergency board is a useless piece of machinery.

WAS PROMINENT IN BADGER AFFAIRS

Gen. G. W. Burchard Is Dead at Fort Atkinson—Had Active Career

Fort Atkinson.—Gen. George W. Burchard, a pioneer resident of this city, died at his home Sunday night. He was 83 years old. The funeral will be held at the home on Wednesday at 2 o'clock. He was in charge of the Museum of the Wisconsin State Fair.

Gen. Burchard was born in Oneida county, N. Y., on Dec. 26, 1837, and in the spring of 1859 came to Wisconsin, settling at Waukesha. In 1859 he was admitted to the bar and practiced at Fox Lake until August, 1862, when he enlisted in the Twenty-ninth Wisconsin infantry. In April, 1863, he was promoted to major. His last assignment was as provost marshal general of the department of Arkansas.

In 1867 Mr. Burchard removed to Fort Atkinson, where he lived until he was invited by Gov. W. E. Smith to become his private and military secretary. In 1875 he served as one of the directors of the Wisconsin state prison, by appointment of Gov. Ludington, from 1876 to 1881, and was a member of the State Board of Supervision of Wisconsin Charitable, Reformatory and Penal Institutions from 1881 to 1885. In 1885 Gov. Rusk appointed him agent for the settlement of Wisconsin swamp lands and war claims which position he filled until 1888. When Gov. Hoard was inaugurated in 1889, he appointed Col. Burchard as adjutant general. From 1892 to 1895, he had been associate editor of Hoard's Farmer. In 1896-7 he was the president of the Wisconsin Farmers' association. President McKinley appointed him postmaster of Fort Atkinson, and he served in that position from June 16, 1898 to 1915. Gen. Burchard several times was a delegate to republican state conventions. In 1888 he made a brief speech seconding the nomination of his friend and neighbor, William Dempster Hoard, as the nominee for governor, which was highly commended as being one of the best speeches of the session.

Mr. Burchard was instrumental in the establishment of cow testing associations in Wisconsin. There are now 115 such associations in the state, with over thirty-six hundred members who own 54,625 cows.

WISCONSIN HAS 4 WOMEN OFFICERS

Governor Blaine May Grant Greater Recognition to New Voters.

Madison.—Woman suffrage has failed to bring any members of the newly franchised sex an elective state office in Wisconsin. Four women in elective county office are the only ones who have received political favor from the Badger commonwealth. All of the 133 state legislators are men as are the four state officers. Women are excluded from legislative employment by a statute which specifies that "male persons only shall be employed."

As a result of this statute they are prevented from sharing in the ninety-two appointments made by clerks and sergeants at arms of the senate and assembly. Stenographers and clerks selected on a partial civil service basis, must all come from the politically entrenched sex.

But two members of the Wisconsin commissions are women. No commission or department has a woman as its head, and few of the responsible state positions outside of the legislature have been awarded to one of those who have recently been put on political equality with the men who operate the government.

Gov. Blaine is said to have recognized the minor part women have in Wisconsin government and to have decided that they should replace men in those state positions for which they are specially adapted. Possibility of a woman to head the industrial commission has been persistently mentioned.

Recent organization of woman's political club was said to be a forerunner of more active participation on their part in state affairs. The women's vote is everywhere recognized as of deciding importance, and they feel that members of their sex should be favored with political positions.

WANTS TO CREATE NEW TOWN IN FLORENCE CO.

Madison, Wis.—Assemblyman J. D. Grandine, North Crawford farmer who represents Florence, Forest and Oneida counties in the lower house of the legislature, is having a bill prepared to create a new town in the southwestern section of Florence county. Mr. Grandine has a map showing that at the present time it is necessary for the residents of that section of the county to travel from thirty to fifty miles to the town hall to cast their ballot, and as a consequence only a small portion of them are able to vote or have any voice in the town government. It is proposed to divide the town of Commonwealth to travel from thirty to fifty miles to the town hall to cast their ballot, and as a consequence only a small portion of them are able to vote or have any voice in the town government. SALOON OWNER IS FINED AFTER AGED MAN DIES

Stevens Point.—Peter Chech, proprietor of a soft drink establishment in the town of Dewey, appeared before County Judge W. F. Owen, pleaded guilty to a charge of selling liquor containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol and paid a fine of $100 and costs of $11.50.

The Chech saloon is the one where, it is alleged, Albert Rompalski, 72 year old town of Hull farmer, spent several hours on Dec. 3 before starting on a journey toward his home, which ended in his death on the road side ten rods from the saloon. The body was found on the following morning and an investigation was conducted by Coroner H. D. Boston. Alcoholism was suspected, but a coroner's inquest was dismissed when Fred G. E. Culver of the state normal school reported that an analysis of the stomach indicated he had not consumed enough alcohol to cause death.

The complaint to which Chech pleaded guilty was made by Michael Rompalski, a son of Albert Rompalski.

Madison, Wis.—The market division is trying to promote the practice of systematic bookkeeping by the farmer. Farming is a business, says the division's new letter, the same as banking or running a store. It is a business which involves the production and sale of several kinds of products. Two important points must be considered by the farmer (1) What does it cost to produce these products? (2) By selling at market prices, what profit is made on them? If a farmer wants to be as efficient in his business as the banker or the storekeeper in theirs, he must not guide himself by his own means of measuring his farm operations, and keeping accurate record of sales and profits made. The peasant of the farmer is to secure the greatest net return for his labor and the use of his capital. He should receive interest on his capital as well as wages for his labor. Owing to the lack of records few farmers know what wages they receive or what interest they realize on their investment. A proper system of bookkeeping will show the farmer what it costs to produce his products. It will enable him to answer two important questions: (1) Can costs of production be lowered? and (2) Can some other crop be substituted for this one and result in greater profit? His accounts will reveal leaks in the use of men, labor or horse labor, thereby eliminating waste in production. They will at the same time be valuable in helping him to keep track of the real value of the crops he grows substituting certain crops for those which do not net him a reasonable profit. A well kept system of bookkeeping will enable the farmer to determine whether the price at which he sells his products is commensurate with the cost of producing them. Farmers generally claim that the prices they are getting too low. Many investigations have been undertaken in recent years to determine the cost of production of farm crops but most of them have not resulted in any reliable information. One of the reasons for this is the absence of records and accounts on individual farms. Farmers should contribute the necessary facts to show that their claims of high costs and low prices are well founded.

Farmers generally claim that the prices they are getting too low. Many investigations have been undertaken in recent years to determine the cost of production of farm crops but most of them have not resulted in any reliable information. One of the reasons for this is the absence of records and accounts on individual farms. Farmers should contribute the necessary facts to show that their claims of high costs and low prices are well founded.

Where Standard Oil Efficiency Is Needed Most

IN the ten Middle Western States served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) there is one automobile for each 9 persons. It is estimated that 65% of these vehicles are owned by farmers. That is the utmost of efficiency in refining, manufacturing, and distributing gasoline and other petroleum products is needed most in this great territory.

To indicate the tremendous increase in the number of cars and trucks, the following statement of 1919 and 1920 registrations by states is given:

STATES	1919	1920
So. Dakota	104,625	122,040
Iowa	363,000	442,200
Minnesota	299,743	323,572
Missouri	229,577	295,817
Kansas	228,601	265,385
No. Dakota	82,885	90,840
Michigan	296,378	412,275
Wisconsin	236,974	303,246
Indiana	277,255	332,207
Illinois	478,438	569,127
	2,557,476	3,156,709

To enable these machines to operate in all weather, under all conditions, and wherever they may be located, an adequate supply of gasoline is needed. To supply this need is the constant endeavor of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). The refineries operated by this Company are working night and day to increase the yield of gasoline taken from crude oil, without in any way sacrificing the quality of the gasoline.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) operates a distribution system maintained at as near to 100% efficiency as is humanly possible. To do this calls for a minute and unwearying study of local conditions, and for constant anticipation of future needs.

All activities of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are co-ordinated to the highest degree of efficiency to insure maximum economy.

Thus in the Middle West, where efficiency is needed most, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is performing this essential economic service to the benefit of all the people

With Star Missing, Appleton Takes Defeat—Neenah Beats Kaukauna.

Fond du Lac Lutherans took another victory from Appleton in a lively basketball game at Fond du Lac Monday evening when the Olive Branch team was defeated by a score of 38 to 10. Lueckel, star player for the Olives, was out of the game due to an injury to his fingers last week.

The Fondy five piled up a good lead at the start and maintained it all thru the game. The score at the end of the first half was 24 to 8. Sedlitz did the heavy scoring for Fondy, shooting six baskets. Schroeder made six points for the victors. Froehke and Burmeister, each shot two baskets for the Olives.

A reception was given the visiting team and rosters in the Lutheran school hall following the game. A program was rendered, games were played and an elaborate supper was served.

The lineup:

LET GEORGE DO IT

GEORGE MCBRIDE

Clark Griffith won't sit in the old bird house much this season.

He's turned things over officially to George McBride, his veteran shortstop.

Let George do it!

Poey Griff assumed the duties of president of the Nationals last year but delayed naming his successor.

He couldn't have chosen a man who'll be respected more highly around the American League lanes than George McBride.

George has 20 years of professional baseball experience behind him. He is a Milwaukeean by birth—just 40 years ago. He broke in with his home-town club in the American Association in 1901.

After several trips around Western League diamonds he landed with the Washington club in 1908. He was never a great hitter but his fielding at short was brilliant.

Walter Johnson is the only Nat to outrank him in veteranship.

They've always been buddies. George will take his ball club to Tampa.

HILL WANTS TO GIVE ZOLL ANOTHER TRY

Appleton Man Thinks He Has Fighting Chance With Earl Caddock.

George Hill, Appleton's heavyweight champion, won his third match in a week when he threw Steve Auerers, Minneapolis, in two falls at Odanah, Monday night. Hill won the first fall in 42 minutes and the second in 18 1/2. He said Auerers is one of the fastest men he has met in a long time. He said the bout seemed to clinch victory.

Hill, who spent a few hours in Appleton Tuesday afternoon, said he is willing to give Earl Zoll a return match anytime the latter wants it. Reports from Green Bay indicate Carl wants to tackle the Appleton man again. Hill says he is willing to have the bout staged in Green Bay.

Hill believes he should have another match with Earl Caddock who is to meet Ed "Strangler" Lewis, world's champion, Jan. 4, in New York. Caddock defeated Hill after a hard battle a few weeks ago but Hill says he is now in better condition. Caddock was formerly world's champion.

The Appleton man believes Caddock can defeat Lewis despite the latter's deadly headlock. He described Caddock as the fastest heavyweight wrestler in America and can use more holds than any other wrestler now on the mat. Hill does not believe Lewis will be able to clamp his hold on the challenger.

BULLETIN

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—The Dempsey-Carpenter match will be held July 2, probably either in Canada or England, G. L. (Tex) Rickard, one of the promoters, told the United Press today.

Rickard thus disposed of rumors circulated earlier in the day that the bout between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpenter for the heavyweight championship of the world had been cancelled.

By Henry L. Farrell
New York.—The ban on high prices for glove exhibitions, recently declared by the New York state boxing commission, led to circulation of reports today that the heavyweight championship contest between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpenter has been cancelled.

The bout was tentatively scheduled to take place in New York City and those responsible for the rumors reasoned that as this had been the most available site in the United States and Dempsey might not relish the idea of risking his title in another country, the fight naturally would not take place anywhere.

In this connection, it was recalled that the two principals were to post $100,000 and the three promoters, Tex Rickard, William A. Brady and Charles B. Cochran, a like sum before November 20. The only one of the promoters to put up his share was said to be Cochran. Francois Deschamps, manager of Carpenter, posted a check for $50,000 in France, but it was alleged this money had never been transferred to this country.

As regards to time, the articles of agreement provided that if the contest were to be held in March, the principals were to be notified not later than Jan. 1, while if it were to take place between May and July, the notification was to be made prior to March.

Eau Claire MOVES TO OUST ITS COMMISSION

Eau Claire—A move to abandon the commission form of city government in Eau Claire, the first city in Wisconsin to adopt the plan, was started here with circulation of petitions asking a vote on the proposition of returning to the ward system of government, with a mayor elected for two years at a salary of $2,000 per year and ten aldermen, one from each ward, at a salary of $50 a month. Behind the move are members of the factions that wrought the adoption of the commission plan here eleven years ago.

ORDER REGISTRATION AT OSKOSH FOR ELECTION

Oshkosh—In Municipal court Monday morning in the matter of mandamus proceedings, brought to compel the city of Oshkosh to hold registration of voters on Tuesday, Jan. 18, it was decided that such a registration must be provided for the special recall election, which is to be held Feb. 1. The demand for registration was pushed by the newly formed citizens' good government league, which has come out in support of Maj. A. Marden, who is candidate for mayor in opposition to Mayor A. C. ## BALL STARS PLAY GAME ON SKATES

Dode Paskert Thinks Winter Baseball Is More Fun Than Summer Brand.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Cleveland.—Baseball on skates! They're playing it on the ice again here this winter.

"It's a fast game. There's nothing like it."

That's Dode Paskert's impression of the ice sport.

"A fellow has to think quicker on skates than on spikes," he says.

"It's surprising how few errors players make, too. Infield boundaries are a cinch. Catching the high ones in the outfield causes most of the trouble."

"When you start after a fly ball it's hard to camp under. You can't turn and go back either."

Paskert is 194.

Paskert is giving little thought to the matter that he is to be a Red this season instead of a Cub. He's getting plenty of outdoor exercise on skates so he'll show up at training camp in good shape.

Other diamond stars are playing the skate baseball, too.

Bill Wambgsans, world series hero of the Indians, is a member of one of the league teams.

Jack Graney, another Indian, has his skates sharpened up and is waiting for thicker ice.

Back to Players

There is a six-team organization here. It's called the Cleveland Ice Baseball League. Chicago is experimenting with the ice sport, too.

It's hoped to hold a world series before the ice melts.

Ross Tenney, president of the league, is the father of ice baseball. He tried it out two years ago.

The rules are a combination of the indoor and outdoor codes. Dangers that at first made it impracticable for star ball players to risk injury in playing it have been reduced to a minimum.

Attracts Many

The game attracts both skating and diamond stars. The skaters have it on the ball players, though.

Other players on the team rosters are: Pete Johns, former St. Louis Browns; Louie Crowley and Bill Kirschnick, members of the sandlot champions; Johnny Hoernig, who once held the national championship for skating backwards; Elmer Irving, a minor of the National Hockey League; "No-Hit" Bowers, indoor baseball pitcher of Cleveland, who holds a record for pitching no hit games.

So far all games have been played on park rinks in the open. Waiting for freeze-ups has been the chief obstacle.

But it is an exciting game to watch. Some day it's going to rival hockey.

New York—A match between Johnny Kilbane and Andy Chaney for the featherweight championship was being discussed in sporting circles here today, but so far Kilbane had not entered into actual negotiations with Tex Rickard for such a bout.

TWO RIVERS WINS OVERTIME BATTLE

Three Extra 5-Minute Periods Are Played Before Carton Team Loses.

Three extra periods of five minutes each were required to decide the basketball game at Neenah last night, the Two Rivers City team finally nailing the Menasha Carton Co. by the score of 38 to 36. Both teams were composed of players who are well known in local basketball circles. The Neenah team consisted of Jones, Lilly and Wall of Neenah, Kastner and O'Connor of Milwaukee, and Medley, formerly of Marquette, and later a member of the Bushey squad of this city. The Two Rivers lineup included Duford, who starred on the Bushey team three years ago, Wilson, formerly an Oshkosh high school man, Karl of Fond du Lac, Delman and LaFond of Two Rivers.

To Wilson and Duford must go the laurels for bringing victory to the visiting aggregation. Delford played a wonderful floor game, beside out-scoring Kastner, the big "Bright Spots" center of Milwaukee, four field goals to two.

Wilson, playing one of the most sensational games of his career, was easily the star of the entire game. With a four point lead and less than a minute to play, Neenah looked like a sure winner, but Wilson upset the dope by scoring two field goals in rapid succession, tying the score at 26 all.

In the first additional 5-minute period each team scored four points, leaving the score again tied at 30. In the following five minutes O'Connor and Medley each scored a field goal for Neenah, but Duford and Wilson duplicated the feat for Two Rivers, and 34-31 was chalked up on the score board. Then the third extra period was played, in which Wilson again distinguished himself by ringing up two counters, for four points, bringing his total field goals to 10, while the best O'Connor could do for Neenah was a single field goal, leaving the score 38-36 in favor of Two Rivers. Despite the fact that the Carton company team lost, it must be said that the men put up a wonderful game. A large number of Appleton people were in attendance.

GLAMOR OF CITY LIFE
NO LURE TO FARMER NOW

Madison.—The bright lights of town life which lured the farmer boy to the big cities have lost their attraction and country youths are now flocking back to the farm, according to reports received by the state industrial commission from its free agencies.

Wage cutting and unemployment together with dread of a cold winter in a strange place is given as the cause for the movement back to farm.

Reports from eleven cities show that many thousands have returned to the farm without asking a rate of wages which farmers are unable to pay.

CLINTON WOMAN IS ENTHUSIASTIC

Mrs. Hayes Says Tanlac Did Her So Much Good She Is Always Recommending It

"I took Tanlac because it was recommended to me by friends and now I am recommending it to others because of what it has done for me," declared Mrs. M. C. Hayes, of 333 Ninth Ave., Clinton, Iowa.

"For three years I had trouble from a badly disordered stomach. After eating I suffered tortures from indigestion. I had frequent and severe headaches that lasted for two and three days at a time and left me so weak I could hardly move. My nerves were upset and I hardly ever got any sound sleep. I felt so tired and worn-out that I had to give up doing any kind of work."

"The best thing I ever did was when I got Tanlac. My food now agrees with me perfectly, my nerves are steady and I sleep fine at night. I have gained ten pounds in weight and feel better and have more strength than for years."

Tanlac is sold in Appleton by John E. Vogel, F. O. Brown, Shortton, Dr. J. M. Satter, Bear Creek, H. P. Abend, Dale R. E. Lowell, Little Shute, adv.

HER OWN STORY HOLDS THRILL FOR HUNDREDS

The experience of Mrs. G. W. Crosby, E. 1st St., Fond du Lac, strikes home multitudes right here in this community, as there are legions, who will recognize her troubles as their own.

"If I hadn't heeded the advice I read in the newspaper, I would still be suffering from stomach trouble and nervousness, no doubt," she said. "After reading how so many local people were getting relief through taking Kozak, I got some. It ended my troubles. My how I used to suffer from pains in the stomach, nervousness and a rundown condition. Since taking Kozak, I am not one bit nervous, I sleep good, eat good and feel fit as a fiddle."

Does Life Insurance Carry You?

That's the way to put it.

There used to be an old question asked of men by their fellows and by life insurance solicitors—"Do you carry Life Insurance?"

But that question is out of date.

Nobody carries life insurance; the thing is an impossibility, for life insurance won't be in the position of being carried. It is no burden on any man's back. It is an automotive vehicle that carries everybody who invests in it.

But let's not juggle with words—what do we mean when we say that life insurance "carries" the man who buys it?

To begin with, there is something that every decent man feels with regard to the future of wife and children that is actually a load on his mind and on his heart,—a load that cripples his efficiency in other things; that either makes him reckless in his expenditures, because he sees no way of meeting adequately this problem of the future welfare of his family, or that makes him miserly and unhappy for the same reason. This load, life insurance assumes and carries in such a way as to absolutely relieve the man of his burden. It starts him out every day care free in reference to future obligations in case of his sudden death or serious illness.

Again, life insurance carries you into a first-rate habit which is hard, otherwise, to form, viz., a habit of systematic saving.

"Yes, but," you say, "a man must carry life insurance before it can carry him." This might be true if there were not so many additional things which are intensely personal, in which life insurance actually carries the individual who invests in it. For instance, a life insurance policy carries you to the door of the bank and gives you a welcome with the President when you ask him for a business loan, and you would find, if you could explore the back of his mind, that that life insurance policy had carried you very much farther into his good graces concerning that financial transaction than you could have imagined.

Again, life insurance carries you into the position of a sizable estate just as soon as the first premium is paid. This is a good big argument in favor of the man who invests.

Again, in almost every man's life there comes a time when he actually needs to be picked up and carried for a while. Something serious has happened, a big doctor's bill or an unfortunate business experience, or something of the sort, has bowled him over. At that time a life insurance policy comes along and actually puts him on his feet and starts him all over again. This, of course, is due to the loan value which life insurance policies always have after the first two years of life.

Again, although a life insurance policy hasn't as many lives as a cat, yet it has been frequently found to be alive when the man who had previously invested in it thought it had died for lack of premium payments. In the modern life insurance policy there is a provision which starts a reserve fund working after the premium fund has failed and if a man dies within a certain length of time his heirs will discover that that policy, although apparently surrendered, has full vitality,—that is to say, is payable in full to his beneficiaries.

There are many other instances in which it can be easily shown that a life insurance policy, under all circumstances, carries a man who invests in it. So it is no longer accurate to say that you carry life insurance any more than you say you carry a United States Liberty Bond, in which you have invested and which can at any time be turned into cash.

Let us ask you very seriously

Have you given life insurance the opportunity to take you along the road of success in life, releasing your energies, your time, your thought for work and for enjoyments which would be impossible if life insurance did not carry for you the big liabilities to which we have referred.

If life insurance does not carry you, won't you hail the first life insurance salesman you can think of just as you would call up a taxi in order to be carried from one place to another—won't you call this man up and tell him that you want a quick trip from under ainty to insurance; that you want to have a big load taken off your mind concerning the future of your wife and children, and in short that you want to have life insurance carry you and your family safely, smoothly, to the place of financial security that will be at once economical and will give you a sense of welfare quite inexpressible.

APPLETON GIVES BIG WELCOME TO MISS PETERSON

Soprano Thrills Immense Audience in Chapel With Splendid Program.

Lawrence Memorial chapel, scene of many an artistic triumph, has seldom, if ever, resounded to a greater ovation than that given Miss Peterson, Metropolitan Opera company soprano, who appeared as the fourth number of Appleton Community Lecture and Artist series Tuesday evening. To say Miss Peterson scored an artistic triumph is using a time worn phrase but it aptly describes the reception accorded her by more than 1,500 music lovers who filled nearly every chair in the great auditorium.

When Miss Peterson had concluded the final number of the program there was no disposition to leave the hall and it was not until after she had appeared in two encores that the huge crowd began moving toward the exits. It was a wonderful testimonial to a great artist.

Miss Peterson is not a stranger to Appleton people, many of whom have heard her in concerts here and in Oshkosh, her native city, but it is doubtful if she has ever appeared in the Fox river valley to greater advantage. Her program was carefully arranged and very pleasing and her voice, always beautiful, threw a spell over the audience which kept everyone motionless until the last note of the final melody died away.

The gifted soprano's voice improved with each selection and her selections were more pleasing as the program progressed. Her rendition of "Wearin' awa' Jean" in the third group was never excelled by any artist in Appleton and merited the tremendous applause which followed it. "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," sung as an encore after the third group, thrilled with its pathetic melody.

Miss Peterson's wide range of voice was given ample opportunity to display itself in several numbers notably "Songs by Mother Taught Me," and "Jac Thor, an old Swedish folk song."

Miss Peterson's pleasing personality captivated her audience from the start. Her first appearance was greeted with thunderous applause and her infectious smile prepared the crowd for the splendid entertainment in store for it.

This little story about the concert would be incomplete without reference to the accompanist, Clarence Shepard, introduced by Miss Peterson as "a product of Wisconsin of whom we are extremely proud." Mr. Shepard is almost as well known here as a pianist of marked ability as Miss Peterson is as a singer and so last night's concert was in reality a joint recital with Mr. Shepard playing by no means a minor part.

Miss Peterson displayed no mean ability as a pianist in the two final encores numbers in which she played her own accompaniment.

MAY NAME HARRIS FOR REVENUE HEAD

Taxation Expert Who Spoke Here May Become Internal Revenue Commissioner.

Chamber of commerce members who dined with H. Archibald Harris Monday evening and heard him speak may have listened to the next commissioner of internal revenue of the United States. Harris is being expected to secure his appointment to this high position under the Harding administration.

Mr. Harris admitted the truth of the rumor, but made no public mention of it at the meeting Monday. He confided it to a few people who spoke with him.

The experience and qualifications which Mr. Harris possesses are no doubt the basis for the movement to make him head of the government's revenue department. He is president of Archibald Harris and company, Chicago, one of the largest accounting and tax expert firms in the middle west. He is president of the Indiana Association of Certified Public Accountants and was also employed in important capacities of the United States internal revenue department before engaging in private business.

MACHINE WILL SPEED UP WATER DEPT. BILLS

Fred Morris, secretary, was instructed to get prices on addressographs at the meeting of the Appleton Water commission at the city hall Monday afternoon, it being the intention of the commission to install one for sending out bills, which number several thousand quarterly. The secretary was also instructed to get prices on a quantity of galvanized piping to be used the coming year. Bills were allowed in the amount of $675.33, about half of which represented interest on bonds. The payroll amounting to $1,062.31 was also received.

The report of the chemist and chief engineer was submitted and filed. It showed that 51,520,000 gallons of water were pumped during the month of December and that the total number of gallons of fuel oil used was 4,256. The total number of gallons of water treated was 51,520,000. The bacterial removal efficiency of the pumping station for the entire month was 99.9 per cent. The filters were sterilized Dec. 7.

el. John Henningsen was elected organist in place of John Rohm. Sr. Charles Paschen and Herman Kuehl were elected cemetery trustees for three years. The installation of the newly elected officers will be held Sunday, Jan. 24.

The order of services will be continued as last year. The first, third and fifth Sunday mornings in each month will be devoted to German services. All other services will be in the English language.

Reports revealed that there are 321 voting members in the congregation. Active membership in the Sunday school numbers 185, with 38 in the radio roll department and 65 in the home department. The church and Sunday school are growing rapidly.

The adult Bible class, which was organized for the purpose of keeping men and women in the Sunday school, has been divided into two distinct organizations—the men's Bible class and the women's Bible class. Election of officers of the men's class will be held next Sunday, Jan. 23.

The Rev. E. L. Worthman, pastor, is preparing for a large class of new members to be taken into the church at Easter time.

NEAR EAST COMMITTEE GETS MUCH PUBLICITY

Mrs. Stephen C. Rosebush, who has charge of Outagamie county headquarters of Near East Relief at city hall, has received notice from state headquarters at Milwaukee that on Sunday, Jan. 23, a Milwaukee newspaper will print in its magazine section a series of letters written by James Van Toor, a Milwaukee boy now in the service of Near East Relief.

Following this publicity, the Western Newspaper Union will send out this story in its plate matter into every county in the state. Local headquarters was also notified by the state office that Outagamie county was credited with the sum of $530 before Christmas.

Mrs. Rosebush states subscriptions are received by L. O. Wissman at First National bank and by county headquarters. Appeals for help have been sent out to all parts of the county.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude McDonald have returned to Omaha, Neb., after a several weeks' visit with Appleton relatives.

YOUNG LOOKING GRANDMOTHER

What does the word "grandma" convey to you?

Probably a nice gray-haired old lady with spectacles pushed up on her forehead, knitting in a comfortable rocker by the fireplace and taking things easy in her declining years. Yes?

Well, here's a "grandma" who leads about as strenuous a life as is led in this country—Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart. She is holding on her lap her granddaughter, "Baby" Rinehart.

She writes a best seller a year, turns out many magazine stories, plays politics, does welfare work, writes three movie scenarios a season, supervises their production, and in collaboration with Avery Hopwood now has three plays running on Broadway and two more in the making. She also finds lots of time for her home life. Not bad for a "grandma" is it?

APPLETON PROMPT ON TRAIL PAYMENT

Assessment for Yellowstone Trail Will Be $375 for the Year 1921.

Appleton is one of the Wisconsin cities that has never failed to meet its assessment for maintenance of the Yellowstone trail. This compliment was paid the city by H. O. Cooley, managing director of the Yellowstone Trail association, who spent several days here and spoke before the chamber of commerce Monday evening.

Mr. Cooley said a surprising percentage of Wisconsin cities had failed to realize the value of the trail and had therefore failed to meet their assessments. This had never been true of Appleton, "thanks to God and John Conway," he remarked.

Appleton's assessment for 1921 will be $375 and part of the amount will be due in a short time. The 1920 assessment was $250 but increased expense and plans for greater publicity made it necessary to obtain a larger amount. The assessment has been paid by about a dozen Appleton firms in the past, particularly those that obtained a direct benefit. A move may be started to distribute this amount among a larger number of people.

The association does not determine the amount each city should pay. This is fixed at the annual meeting held in the winter in each state and attended by accredited representatives of each city along the trail. The Wisconsin assessment was decided at the recent meeting in Oshkosh. Most of the funds are used for information bulletins, maps, folders, guide signs and other material designed to popularize the Yellowstone Trail and induce more automobile tourists to use it.

The contest is open to all high school students. Prizes will be given to the persons who turn in the best limericks. No one has turned in a product as yet, but by Friday Miss Harper expects to have enough limericks to make selections for the magazine.

COASTING TRAGEDY THIRTY YEARS AGO

Tuesday Was Anniversary of Accident in Which Three Lives Were Lost.

Tuesday was the thirtieth anniversary of the fatal coasting accident on Lawrence street in which three young persons, May Cary, Emma Adelt and Jay Briggs lost their lives and six others, Ella Malone, James Schields, Mollie Holleran, Dr. James Scott, M. H. Croswell and John Schreiner narrowly escaped drowning.

The accident occurred about ten o'clock in the evening of a clear cold moonlight night and was caused by the double runner going through the side of the bridge at the foot of the hill about fifty feet from shore. News of the accident spread rapidly and hundreds of people were on the scene a few minutes later assisting in getting the young people out of the water.

The entire party was hurried into the water. Fortunately they took with them a portion of the side of the structure to which they clung until rescued at the railroad trestle several hundred feet down the river. The supposition was that the three persons who lost their lives were instantly killed by striking the bridge.

The bodies of Jay Briggs and Emma Adelt were recovered within the next few days, but it was several weeks before that of May Cary was found and then only after all the paper mills of Neenah, Menasha and Appleton had shut down to lower the water.

The accident occurred while the party was making its last trip down the hill which never since has been used for coasting. The bridge was closed to traffic several years ago and a portion of it has lately been carried away by high water.

CONROY'S SERVICE IS APPRECIATED BY BOARD

At its last meeting the police and fire commission adopted resolution deploring the necessity of accepting the resignation of John Conroy, assistant chief of the fire department, who had been a member of the department for over quarter of a century, but at the same time it took advantage of the opportunity of expressing its appreciation for his faithful and efficient service. The resolution was made part of the records of the commission and a copy was sent to the former assistant chief.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feed liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color.

HENDERSON TURNS IN FIRST ORDERS

Drew Street Boy Makes Good Start in Scout Thrift Stamp Sale.

Sale of United States treasury savings stamps by the boy scouts got off to a real start Monday. Charles Henderson, 655 Drew street, was the first to announce results. He had taken orders among several people for stamps aggregating $200. Other juvenile security salesmen were scurrying about from house to house spreading the good gospel of thrift.

Most of the scouts are getting in their best work at the start. The district assigned them is forbidden ground to any other troop member until the last two or three days of the week. The district idea will then be abandoned and the boys will be allowed to solicit in any territory they wish.

No goal was set for the campaign, but it is expected it will total several thousand dollars. Postmaster Gustave Keller gave the boys so many good selling points about Uncle Sam's securities that they have little difficulty convincing people about the merits of their offerings. The scouts merely take the orders on the prescribed government form. Mail carriers deliver the stamps and collect the money.

WARD OFF CROUP AND COLDS

Mothers with children liable to croup should take steps to prevent attacks of this distressing ailment. At bedtime if Turpo is applied over the neck and chest, and a little placed up the nostrils, the little ones will sleep soundly and breathe easily. Turpo keeps the air passages clear and antiseptic, and reduces any congestion.

Turpo is the recognized treatment for all colds and congestion. It is made of the old-fashioned and reliable remedies, distilled Turpentine, Camphor and Menthol, skillfully combined in a clear mineral base. It will not stain or blister and produces more immediate relief than any indefinite vapor treatment or cough mixture.

Its worth is proven by the fact that over 150,000 jars are sold every year. Careful mothers everywhere keep a jar of Turpo as a staple article in the home. Doctors recommend Turpo and druggists sell it on a guarantee of money back if not satisfactory.

Sold in white opal jars with the orange and black label, at 30c and 60c.

PERSONS IN THE PLAY

ROBERT BALDWIN
MARTHA, His Wife
JOHN, His Son
EVIE, His Daughter
MARSHALL
A MAID

Copyright by Mr. Wilde and not to be produced without his written permission.

It is a rather hot and sultry Sunday afternoon, and at the parlor window of a trim little cottage the Baldwin family is anxiously awaiting the return of its head.

John, the son, an average young man of twenty-seven, is smoking a pipe as philosophically as if this day were in no whit more momentous than any other. But his mother, trying to compose herself with her knitting, has made little progress in the last half hour; and Evie, his sister, takes no pains to conceal her nervousness.

MARTHA—It's time he was home.

EVIE—(after a pause)—Mother, what does Mr. Gresham want with him? Has he done anything wrong?

MARTHA—(proudly)—Your father? No, Evie.

EVIE—Then why did Mr. Gresham send for him?

MARTHA—He wanted to talk to him.

EVIE—What about? Mr. Gresham has been arrested; they're going to try him to-morrow. What can he want with father?

MARTHA—Your father will have to testify.

EVIE—But he's going to testify against Mr. Gresham. Why should Mr. Gresham want to see him?

MARTHA—I don't know, Evie. You know, your father doesn't say much about his business affairs. (She pauses.) I didn't know there was anything wrong with the bank until I saw it in the papers.

EVIE—Do you think that father had anything to do with—(She does not like to say it.)

MARTHA—With the wrecking of the bank? You know him better than that, Evie.

EVIE—But did he know what was going on? You know what the papers are saying—

MARTHA—They haven't been fair to him, Evie.

EVIE—Perhaps not. But they said he must have been a fool not to know. They said that only he could have known—he and Mr. Gresham. Why didn't he stop it?

MARTHA—He was acting under Mr. Gresham's orders.

EVIE—(contemptuously)—Mr. Gresham's orders! Did he have to follow them?

MARTHA—(after a pause)—Evie, I don't believe your father ever did a wrong thing in his life—not if he knew it was wrong. He found out by accident—found out what Mr. Gresham was doing.

EVIE—How do you know that?

MARTHA—I don't know it; I suspect it—something he said. (Eagerly.) You see, Evie, he can't have done anything wrong. They haven't indicted him.

EVIE—(slowly)—No. They didn't indict him—because they want him to testify against Mr. Gresham. That's little consolation, mother.

JOHN—I was talking to the assistant cashier yesterday.

EVIE—Donovan?

JOHN—Yes, Donovan. I saw him up at the Athletic Club. He said that nobody had any idea that there was anything wrong until the crash came. Donovan had been there eight years. He thought he was taken care of for the rest of his life. He had gotten married on the strength of it. And then, one morning, there was a sign up on the door. It was like a bolt out of a clear sky.

EVIE—And father?

JOHN—He says the governor must have known. He'll swear nobody else did. You see, father was closer to Gresham than anyone else. That puts him in a nice position, doesn't it?

MARTHA—What do you mean, John?

JOHN—The governor the only witness against John Gresham—and he named after him!

MARTHA—Your father will do his duty, John, no matter what comes of it.

JOHN—(shortly)—I know it. And I'm not sure but what it's right. (They look at him inquiringly.) There's John Gresham, grown rich in twenty years, and the governor pegging along as his secretary at sixty dollars a week!

MARTHA—Your father never complained.

JOHN—No, that's just the rub of it. He didn't complain. Well, he'll be his chance to-morrow. He'll go on the stand, and then he'll through there'll put John Gresham where he won't be able to hurt anybody for a while. Wasn't satisfied with underpaying his employees; had to rob his depositors! Serves him jolly well right!

EVIE—(at the window)—There's father now!

(There is the click of a latchkey outside.)

BALDWIN—(coming in)—How are you, my boy? (He shakes hands with John.) Evie! (He pauses for. He goes to a chair; sits. There is an awkward pause.)

JOHN—Well, dad? Don't you think it's about time you told us something?

BALDWIN—Told you something? I don't understand, John.

JOHN—People have been talking about you—saying things—

BALDWIN—What kind of things, John?

JOHN—You an imposter; rotten thief. And I couldn't contradict them.

BALDWIN—Why not, John?

JOHN—Because I didn't know.

BALDWIN—Did you have to know? Wasn't it enough that you knew your father?

JOHN—(after a pause)—I beg your pardon, sir.

BALDWIN—I told him he would have to make good. He said he couldn't. I told him he would have to do the best he could—and the first step would be to close the bank. He didn't want to do that.

MARTHA—But he did it.

BALDWIN—I made him do it. He was angry—very angry, but I had the whip hand.

EVIE—The papers didn't mention that.

BALDWIN—I didn't think it was necessary to tell them.

MARTHA—But you let your name rest under a cloud meanwhile.

BALDWIN—It will be cleared to-morrow, won't it? (He pauses.)

JOHN—To-day Gresham sent for me. The trial begins in twenty-four hours. He's the only witness against him. He asked—

JOHN—(indignantly)—He wanted you to lie to save his skin, eh? Wanted you to perjure yourself?

BALDWIN—That wouldn't be necessary, John. He just wanted me to have an attack of poor memory.

JOHN—It would be a lie, dad!

BALDWIN—(smiling)—Of course. But it's done every day. And they couldn't touch me—any more than they could convict him.

MARTHA—(quivering with indignation)—How dared he—how dared he ask such a thing—!

EVIE—What did you say, father?

BALDWIN—(smiling and raising his eyes to John's)—Well, son, what would you have said?

JOHN—I'd have told him to go to the devil!

BALDWIN—(nodding)—I did.

JOHN—Bully for you, governor!

MARTHA—(half to herself)—I knew! I knew!

BALDWIN—I didn't use your words, John. He's too old a friend of mine for that. But I didn't mince matters any. He understood what I meant.

EVIE—And what did he say then?

BALDWIN—There wasn't much to say. You see, he wasn't surprised. He's known me for thirty-five years, and, well, (with simple pride), anybody who's known me for thirty-five years doesn't expect me to haggle with my conscience. If it had been anybody else than John Gresham I would have struck him across the face. But John Gresham and I were boys together. We worked side by side. And I've been in his employ ever since he started in for himself. He is desperate—he doesn't know what he is doing—or he wouldn't have offered me money.

JOHN—(after a pause)—Robert, I'm not sure I understood what you said before. What did Mr. Gresham want you to do for him?

BALDWIN—Get him off to-morrow.

MARTHA—You could do that?

JOHN—(interrupting)—Oh, I know that. But what crime has he committed?

BALDWIN—That's a crime, John.

EVIE—But if nobody loses anything by it?

BALDWIN—It's a crime nevertheless.

JOHN—It's nothing but a technicality, dad. Nobody loses a cent. It's rather hard on Gresham, I say.

BALDWIN—Yes, John.

EVIE—(timidly)—Would it be such an awful thing, father, if you let him off?

BALDWIN—I wish I could, Evie. But I'm not the judge.

JOHN—It's going to be a nasty mess if they put John Gresham in jail—with your own son named after him! It's going to be pleasant for me! John Gresham Baldwin!

MARTHA—(after a pause)—Robert, I'm not sure I understood what you said before. What did Mr. Gresham want you to do for him?

This Is The Most Successful Disposal Sale Ever

There are many reasons for the giganticness of year's Winter Clean-Up Sales. The backwardness of season is one of the chief causes. Another reason is public has been buying sparingly, waiting for still lower prices.

At the beginning of the season we purchased a tremendous stock of merchandise, for we anticipated a season. All these goods were bought at the old price. Then came the break. Although we've made readjustments to conform to the reduction made at the whole centers our immense stocks did not move with rapidity.

and Continues Thro' Saturday January 29

Endous Twice-A-Year
Held In This Store

The weather was against us. As a result our stocks are bigger than they would be if we had cold and blustery days.

Because of our predicament, you are given the most amazing bargain opportunities—values that vividly recall those good old low-price days of 1914. We cut prices on all winter merchandise in the store. No attention has been paid to what the goods cost or to our profit on them. Our only thought is to clear out our stocks. And we believe, at their new reductions they will move out in double quick time.

WANT TO KNOW WHO OWNS U. S. BONDS
That Knowledge Necessary Before Maturity Date Will Be Extended.

By H. B. Hunt
(Special to Post-Crescent)

Washington—Congressmen are trying to find out who holds the twenty-four billions dollars of Liberty and Victory bonds.

Whether the bulk of these bonds are still in the hands of the original purchasers, or have been bought up below par by wealthy investors and speculators, will determine these congressmen's attitude on the proposal for a general refunding of these issues into one 50-year, tax-exempt issue.

A determined attempt is to be made for the adoption by the Republican Congress, which will meet in March, of a radically different financial policy from that adopted by the Democrats.

On the surface, the change is declared desirable in order to put Liberty bonds at par. This, many believe, would relieve the credit situation.

Underlying Reason
The underlying reason, however, is that by extending the maturity of war bonds to 50 years, instead of the less than 20 years they now have to run, a much smaller sum would have to be provided from taxes each year for the sinking fund.

This would make possible immediate relief in taxes promised by the Republicans, which otherwise will be most difficult.

Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, one of President-elect Harding's closest friends, has pending a refunding measure which he will resubmit at the special session.

The Frelinghuysen bill authorizes a $25,000,000 issue of 3 1/2 per cent bonds, maturing in 50 years, "except from all taxation except estate or inheritance taxes."

The bonds would be issued in exchange for Liberty or Victory loan bonds, treasury certificates tax certificates and war savings securities.

As a member of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee Frelinghuysen will be in position to push his proposal.

Emphasis will be placed on the advantage to the public of having its Liberty bonds placed at par.

Opposition's Argument
Opponents of the refunding proposal, however, declare this is merely a subterfuge to hide the desire to provide capital with a safe tax-free investment and to help speculators and bankers who have bought in bonds at a heavy discount cash in immediately at a big profit.

All the bonds will be redeemed at maturity at par, these opponents point out. Hence the man who is holding his bond as an investment is in no way affected by any temporary depression in their quoted market price.

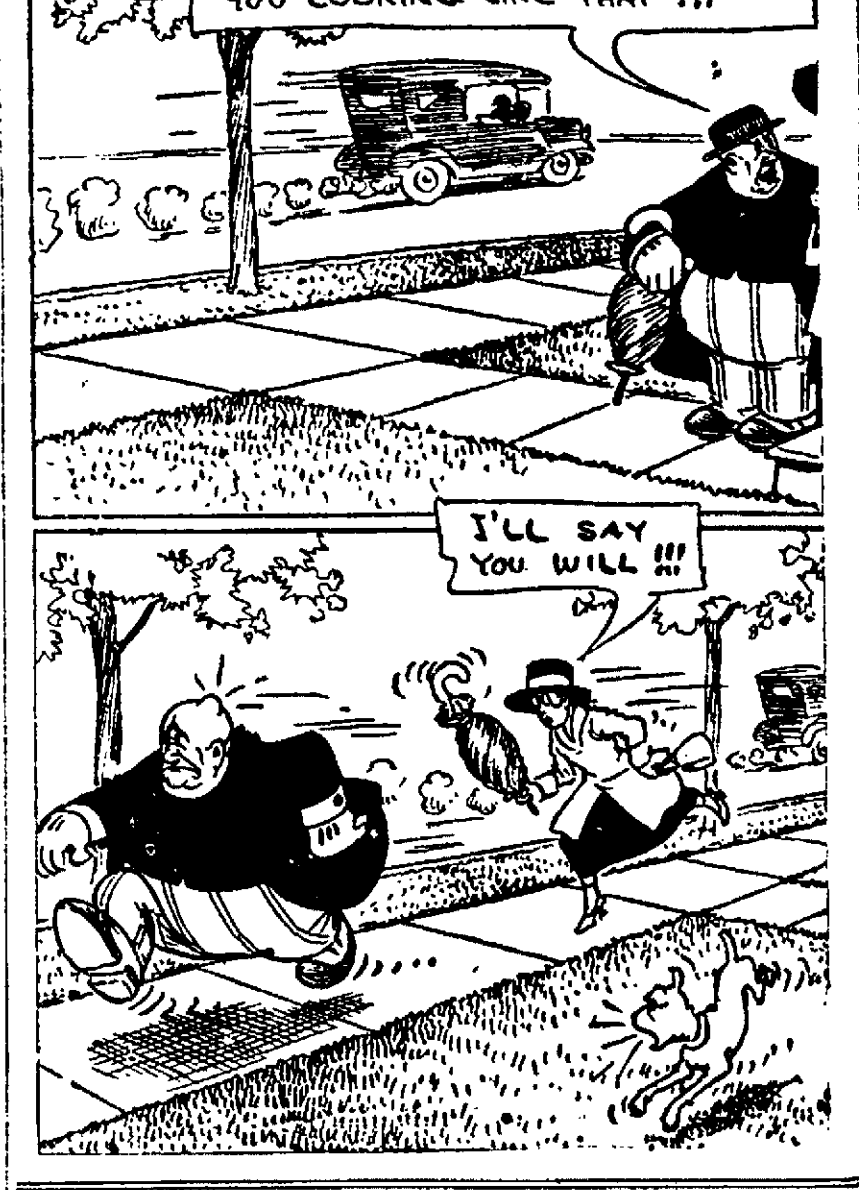

To put war bonds at par, by a general refunding issue, would not repay patriotic purchasers forced to sell at losses. It would, however, immediately give an unearned profit of from 10 to 15 per cent to the persons who bought these bonds at a discount.

Secretary of Treasury Houston opposes any general refunding move.

ODDS ON NEWBERRY TO KEEP HIS SEAT
Michigan Senator Stands Excellent Chance of Winning Senate Battle.

By H. B. Hunt
(Special to Post-Crescent)

Washington—Odds on Truman H. Newberry retaining his seat as U. S. senator from Michigan, as against Henry Ford being awarded it, are two to one.

Newberry has two chances of winning his fight: in the verdict of the U. S. Supreme Court on his appeal from conviction of violating election laws; and in the recount by the Senate Committee on Elections.

Ford's only chance lies in what the senatorial recount will show. As Newberry beat Ford on the face of the returns by 8,000 votes, and 17,000 ballots from districts where Newberry had longest leads have been destroyed, Ford's chances are narrowed down.

For the committee will accept the original official count from these districts.

James O. Murfin of Detroit, attorney for Newberry, makes this statement:

"If Senator Newberry's conviction is sustained by the Supreme Court, he will resign at once and go to Fort Leavenworth - penitentiary to serve his sentence."

Newberry was sentenced by Judge Clarence O. Sessions of the federal court in Grand Rapids to the penitentiary for two years. He was also fined $10,000.

Wouldn't Help Ford
According to Senator Spencer, chairman of the subcommittee in charge of the Newberry-Ford investigation, a verdict by the Supreme Court that Newberry is guilty would not give Ford his seat.

"Such a verdict," Senator Spencer says, "would settle whether or not Newberry was guilty of violating election laws. The Senate then would drop that part of its inquiry."

"But Ford's rights rest on the outcome of the Senate recount and on that alone."

"Should the Supreme Court affirm Newberry's conviction, even a recount showing he received a majority in the election would not help him."

Arguments are scheduled to begin before the U. S. Supreme Court Jan. 3.

Newberry and the 18 others convicted with him will be represented by Charles Evans Hughes and Martin W. Littleton, both of New York, and Judge Murfin.

Senatorial Recount
The recount will begin under the supervision of the sergeant-at-arms of the Senate Jan. 4. Out of some 430,000 ballots cast, about 413,000 ballots have been brought to Washington; the remainder have disappeared.

Counting will take place till about Feb. 1.

As Senate leaders plan it, even if Newberry is convicted his seat will be saved to the Republicans unless the recount gives Ford a clear majority, for Alex Groesbeck on taking office as governor of Michigan would appoint a Republican as senator.

Those Convicted
Among the 18 convicted with Newberry were:

Paul H. King, federal referee in bankruptcy, Detroit.

Allan A. Templeton, millionaire manufacturer and former president of the Detroit Board of Commerce.

Frederick Cody, politician and brother of Detroit's superintendent of schools.

They received the same sentence as Newberry. King was executive secretary of the campaign and Templeton general chairman.

John Newberry, brother of the Senator, was fined $2,000.

The Ford-Newberry contest in 1918 was the most vigorous in Michigan's history.

After Newberry was awarded the victory, the cry of fraud went up.

The grand jury convened in Grand Rapids in Oct. 23, 1919, and began its investigation. It promptly indicted Newberry and 134 others.

Specific Charge
The indictment on which Newberry and the others were tried charged "conspiracy to spend or cause to be permitted Newberry to spend."

The sum allowed by law, it was claimed, was $2,750.

The indictment, charged, however, that $176,000 was spent in electing the senator.

The defense admitted in excess of $3,750 was paid out, but by friends of the senator and without his sanction. This, the defense alleged, was legal, spent more money than the state law

MADISON PRINTERS WOULD 'SOAK' STATE
Would Change Law to Permit State Printing to Be Done Away From Madison.

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Madison—But for the objection of Senator Staudenmayer the bill of the 1921 session would have passed the senate Tuesday afternoon and been immediately messaged to the assembly under suspension of the rules.

When the senate convened Tuesday afternoon Senator Nye introduced a bill at the request of David Atwood, editor of the state printing board, amending the statutes to permit the legislative printing to be done outside the city of Madison. Senator Nye, in asking for immediate consideration of the bill under suspension of the rules said the printing board declares it has reasons to believe a combination has been formed by Madison printers to boost the price of the state printing as the law at present specifically provides that the legislative printing shall be done at the seat of the government. The bill of 1919, which he said met with the approval of the governor, strikes that clause out of the law and would leave the printing open to the bidders of the state.

Senator Staudenmayer declared he did not want to prevent the state from saving money but he wanted to look into the matter himself and asked that it lay over until today, which under the rules was necessary.

The printing board announced that printers from half a dozen cities outside of Madison were here to bid on the work if the bill as introduced was passed.

Lack of Buying Power Is Also

By United Press Leased Wire.
Chicago.—Heavy supplies of wheat at the leading markets, coupled with lack of buying power, caused a decline in quotations in that grain on the Chicago board of trade today. Corn and oats also dropped in sympathy with wheat, on heavy commission house selling. Provisions were lower.
March wheat opened at $1.74 and lost an additional 3/4 in later trading. May wheat opened at $1.66, and dropped 3/4 additional before the close.
Corn, May, was off 1/4 at the opening, 69 1/2, and dropped an additional 1 1/2 subsequently. July corn opened at 70 1/2, off 1/2, and lost 1 1/2 before the close.
May oats opened unchanged at 45 1/2, and lost 1/4 later. July oats opened off 1/4 at 45 1/2, and lost 1 1/2 additional later.

COUNTRY ROADS ARE BECOMING SNOWED IN

Patrolmen on the Mackville and Black Creek highways found it impossible to plow out the snow in places after the storms and drifting early in the week. It was necessary to shovel out some of the cuts.
It is believed automobile traffic on these roads may have to suspend for the winter if there is much more snow or if it continues to drift. The vehicle track has become continually narrower and it is now impossible for two cars or sleighs to pass at many points. Only about half the usual number of cars that travel these highways in the winter are in use now. Some farmers are unable to drive out to the main roads and other prefer to use horses. One farmer was called on the times Sunday to extricate stranded automobiles with his team.

BLAMES UNREST FOR ROBBERY OF MAILS

By United Press Leased Wire.
Chicago.—A new generation of Al Jennings and the James brothers has emerged making front pages of newspapers read like Diamond Dick's diary.
Robberies of the United States mails is on the increase and according to postoffice inspectors is due to "unrest."
"These young bandits think all they have to do is to steal a mail pouch and collect a fortune," said Adolph Germer, acting chief postal inspector.
"Most of these thefts net the bandits nothing. A robbery advertised as a half million dollar affair often amounts down to a half million dollars in cancelled checks."
Inspector Germer admitted there had been some choice pouch robberies in which the bandits obtained large sums of money.
"Pouch robberies have been advertised so extensively that bandits are turning their attention to this form of theft," he said.
Most robberies are committed by amateurs, he said.

Chicago.—After a gun battle in the fashionable Hyde Park residential section here, five men, suspected of the mail pouch robbery at the union station early yesterday, are being held for investigation today.

FEAR HASTY CHANGE
IN U. S. TARIFF LAW

normal of a war-torn world. Europe cannot work back to normal without the help of America, and America cannot become normal unless and until the normalcy of Europe in some measure is restored, and until the restoration has proceeded far enough to justify the conclusion that it will be eventually completed.
"There are produced in this country every year goods and commodities in volume in excess of domestic requirements and in many cases quantity production is essential to economical production. In order to dispose of our surplus products we must sell them to foreign countries and in the present posture of world affairs, it is out of the question for foreign countries to pay for goods purchased here in the usual manner. We must buy their goods if we expect them to pay for ours and pending restoration of the normal productive activities of the world and of Europe particularly, where those activities have been most curtailed, it is necessary that we should devise some new means of financing foreign trade."

Hints Against Tariff
Mr. Harding seems to believe that the export corporations authorized by the Export law will be very useful though his address doesn't seem to indicate much faith in the revival of the war finance corporation over which Congress and the chief executive clashed recently. Mr. Harding is in a delicate position and can't discuss the tariff very freely but the hint which is given in the foregoing quotation may be taken as the informal attitude of members of the federal reserve board who look askance at unsentimental and ill-considered attempts at tariff revision at this time. What seems to be feared is that a tariff may operate as an embargo and trade relationship, as lost "while countries which have been in the habit of selling to Europe but which now, on account of Europe's inability to pay and their own inability to extend credit" will be shipping raw materials to the United States in order to sell for cash. Indeed, the accumulation of goods in the United States through the anxiety of countries other than European to sell their goods for cash is as much a factor in the present tariff controversy as the age-old cry of cheaper European labor. Mr. Harding's speech may be regarded as the first warning that when tariff revision is begun in earnest the banking world will be as much interested in seeing international exchanges as a whole stabilized through a careful adjustment of tariff duties as the manufacturers will be in getting protection for their individual industries.
